

Hi everyone

It's a strange day here at school today as it should be the last day of term before the Easter Holidays - and it also would have been the day of our drama production at the Titchfield Festival Theatre. We were really looking forward to this - although I think the staff were particularly looking forward to the after show party! We do hope to try and do the show at another time - but at the moment it is difficult to plan for anything isn't it?

We are not planning on setting any formal work over the holidays but you will notice that we have put some 'Easter Activity' ideas on the Home Learning page which should be suitable for all ages. Staff will be taking a break from commenting on Tapestry or Seesaw, though you can still add items if you would like to. I will leave the current home learning ideas on the year group pages in case you haven't managed to get it all done or would like to space it out a little!

We will be open for several days over the Easter holidays but not every day. If you are a key worker and find you do need to use us for childcare please contact me to let me know 24 hours in advance so that I can put cover in place.

On behalf of everyone at Crofton Hammond Infant School I would like to wish you all a very Happy Easter - albeit a very different one to the one we might have been hoping for. I hope you and everyone you love stay safe and well, and I would like to pass on the thanks of all the staff to all of you involved in key worker roles.

With very best wishes

Jacky
